

Hanbury Village Walk

The walk starts at the Jinney Ring craft centre, park car in bottom car park. Take footpath past left hand side of the duck pond and follow trail into a small wood. Walk through wood to bottom left hand corner and go through a gate. Take footpath around edge of the field and across a stile.

Follow the diagonal trail to a stile which brings you out onto Pumphouse Lane. Turn right and follow the lane passing some lovely cottages and houses along the way, good views of Hanbury Church can be seen up on the hill to your right. When you get to Grumbleground Cottage on your right follow a post sign, cross stile and brook into field. Cross diagonally over field to next stile, follow trail to next stile cross and then walk to another stile and then onto a large gate.

This gate opens onto School Road, go straight across the road and follow the finger post crossing stile into the grounds of Hanbury Hall (Hall and car park are on your left).

Hanbury Hall is a National Trust property, the Gardens are a lovely place to stop for a picnic, the Hall is also worth a visit but check opening times, charges apply for Hall and Gardens but the grounds are free to the public.

Cross land slightly diagonally keeping the pond on your left and take a right then walk down an avenue of trees towards the church, enter next field through a gate and follow trail up to the church and go through gate onto lane. Cross Lane and walk up to the church and into the church yard bearing right and walk around church yard to a gate, once here you may wish to stop and take a look around, there are excellent views across Worcestershire from this vantage point. To continue the walk go through gate and down the hill to the school. Cross stile into School Road, cross the road and go through gate then another small gate crossing school grassed area, go over a stile and into crop field. Follow path to a metal gate passing through into a field then across stile and walk across to another metal gate, go through and you are now back at the Jinney Ring craft centre which is a good picnic spot and also serves food and drink.
